

Getting Organized

PBS Resources

Talk About It: How to Get Organized With Lists and Labels

Grocery lists, packing lists, labels, recipes, invitations, and instruction manuals are all examples of ways that we use text every day to perform a task or fulfill a specific need. Watch this video with your child to see examples of how Molly's family uses lists and labels to stay organized and make packing a cinch.

pbs.org/parents/talk/talk-about-it-how-to-get-organized-with-lists-and-labels

Create a Homework Center

An organized homework space can help children get started on — and finish — their work faster. Having pencils, scissors, crayons, markers and more neatly sorted and stored in one place eliminates the need to dig through backpacks and hunt around the house for supplies for 30 minutes. And even better than organizing the space is personalizing it with your own artwork.

pbs.org/parents/crafts-and-experiments/create-a-homework-center

Household Chores for Every Age Chart

pbs.org/parents/printables/household-chores-for-every-age-chart

Parent Hacks from CET and ThinkTV highlights tips and tricks to help parents and caregivers add more organization to their busy lives all while keeping children involved and entertained!

pbs.org/parents/video/show/parent-hacks-video?topic=all-videos

